ACCON goes iC

On 1st of October 2019, ACCON GmbH headquartered in Greifenberg near Munich and its subsidiaries will become part of the iC group. iC is a team of experts for complex engineering projects and technical interdisciplinary overall solutions. iC is located in Austria at five locations as well as 15 other locations throughout Europe. In total, iC Consulenten and its associated companies employ more than 500 people. In the field of immission control and building physics, one of the largest and most powerful teams of experts in Europe is being established. Their combined services will be offered in their home markets as well as across Europe and around the globe.

Markus Petz, the long-term owner and Managing Director, will continue to act as director and prime contact person for clients. The management trio will be completed by Wolfgang Henry, who has been part of the management team of ACCON for a number of years and is responsible for the areas of air pollution control and approval management, and Wolfgang Unterberger, a partner of iC and head of the immission control department of the iC group.

This cooperation will be characterised by continuity but also by the objective of pursuing new opportunities and possibilities in the interests of our clients and employees.
